FELLOW TEACHERS:-The status of Kentucky teachers needs and should The adage that "The gods help those who help themselves." loses none of its pithiness in its application to common school teachers in general, nor to those of Kentucky in particular.

The present method of paying the teacher should be denominated a legal intrage. It is true that there is a legend somewhere in Kentucky law which intimates that when a school is ford district, is this week announced as G. A. Murray, of Youngstown, Ohio, taught half out the teacher receives forty per cent. of his beggarly stipend and the remainder, or sixty per cent., at the close of the session. Were this aught but a legend—a quotation from the Arabian Knights' entertainmentwe might take heart of grace and bridge the chasm over. A five month's school beginning on the first Monday of September, is half out at the expiration of fifty school days therefrom, and the teacher is supposed to receive forty per trict at that time. This would be "a immation devoutly to be wished." but, alas, it never happens. On the field's popular attorneys, was in town contrary he receives the first portion of his salary on or about the middle of February or March of the next year, and the second portion in July or
